

Forensic Awareness of Document Examination for Investigators

6 April 2017 (1 to 4 pm)

Marina Bay Sands, Singapore

Workshop Presenters

This workshop is specially designed for investigators who may come across disputed documents during their course of work.

For example, a signature may be alleged to be forged; the thumbprint on a will may not belong to the deceased; or an entire document could have been fabricated or tampered with.

The course aims to provide participants with awareness and knowledge of the forensic examination of questioned documents and fingerprints, and equip them with practical skills on the proper collection and preservation of document and fingerprint evidence.

Lim Chin Chin

She has more than 20 years of experience in forensic science, culminating in a wide range of expertise in several forensic disciplines. She has been featured as a leading forensic scientist by the media, magazines and her alma mater, NUS.

She is an expert in forensic reconstruction, an area which requires indepth knowledge of multiple forensic disciplines to answer the “who”, “what”, “when”, “where” and “how” of an incident or crime. Since 1995, Ms Lim has provided expert testimony in the Singapore States court and High Court.

Yang Chiew Yung

She has more than 14 years of experience in forensic science, specialising in the area of forensic document examination.

She was at the Document Examination Laboratory at the Health Sciences Authority (HSA) in 2002, before she embarked on her career as Consultant Forensic Scientist at TFEQ in October 2013.
